ABSTRACT

Latent infection or subclinical disease of canine babesiosis is an important problem. Carrier dogs without clinical signs are sources of transmission by tick vector.